Apurinã Snuff – Awiry

SKU Base: RAAP01

The renowned green Rapé of the Apurinã tribe is derived from a plant known as Awiry. Unlike other varieties, this unique Rapé does not incorporate ashes or tobacco. The process involves drying the leaves of the Awiry plant, followed by pounding and sieving to produce a fine powder. The geographical location of the Awiry plant, typically found near riverbanks, determines the production schedule of this Rapé. It can only be crafted during the dry season when the river levels are low. The traditional method of consumption is through inhalation via a straight tube, a distinctive practice that sets it apart from most Sacred Snuff varieties, which are typically administered through nasal insufflation.

Rapé Caboclo Samaúma Croa

SKU Base: RACO07

"This high-quality rapé, crafted with premium tobacco and samauma ashes, offers a smooth yet potent experience. The ashes are collected and processed near the stunning Croa river, located close to Cruzeiro do Sul. This region is renowned for its spiritual centers, which are dedicated to the study and use of indigenous plants and medicines. The samauma tree, often referred to as the 'queen of the forest', is the largest in the forest, providing shade to all other trees. Its bark is frequently incorporated into herbal preparations to address various health concerns."

Rapé Caboclo Paricá

SKU Base: RACO05

This potent medicine is not intended for the faint of heart, as it is designed to facilitate a profound journey. It is meticulously crafted using Rustica, a traditional ingredient, and ashes derived from the bark of a tree locally known as Paricá, or Xixá. This Rapé is the creation of a highly skilled non-indigenous Rapé artisan from the region. Having spent his formative years in the heart of the forest, this artisan began his career as a young rubber tapper. His deep knowledge of the forest, its diverse flora, and its medicinal properties, is reflected in the quality and authenticity of this Rapé.

Rapé Caboclo Mulata

SKU Base: RACO04

"This product is meticulously crafted with artisanal string tobacco, tsunu ash, and Mulata – a traditional herb indigenous to the region. It is important to note that Mulata is not to be confused with the Mulateiro tree. This snuff blend is potent and known for its soothing properties. Additionally, Mulatinha leaves, a key ingredient in the blend, are traditionally used in therapeutic baths to promote relaxation and alleviate stress. The blend's calming effects have also been utilized in traditional practices to soothe young children."

Rapé Caboclo Marachimbé

SKU Base: RACO03

This product is crafted with Paricá ash, artisanal string tobacco, and a unique blend of rare local herbs. The selection of herbs used in this snuff is derived from the healing teachings that the forest imparted to a former Nukini shaman through a dream. The shaman used this medicinal blend to heal his community from a rebellion outbreak. According to Nukini indigenous knowledge, this snuff is viewed as a refined and potent mixture.

Rapé Caboclo Alfavaca Eucalipto (Special Eucaliptus)

SKU Base: RACO01

This rapé was crafted by one of our esteemed artisans, deeply rooted in the rich Caboclo culture. The Caboclo people, a blend of immigrant workers and indigenous populations, have inherited a wealth of knowledge similar to that of the native tribes. Key among their traditional ingredients is Alfavaca da mata, a native herb known for its medicinal properties. Alfavaca da mata is traditionally used to alleviate symptoms such as fever and headaches, and is believed to boost immunity. In addition, it is often incorporated into herbal baths for spiritual cleansing and protection against negative energies.

Rapé Huni Kuin Xipão

SKU Base: RAHK12

This unique plant, which grows parasitically on palm trees, is characterized by its distinctive, pleasant aroma. Traditionally, the Huni Kuin people have used it as a remedy for flu, fever, and respiratory issues. Beyond its medicinal properties, this plant also has a calming effect, contributing to nerve relaxation and mental tranquility. The rapé, a form of this plant-based medicine, is made with ashes from the native cacao of the region. Cacao, renowned for its beneficial impact on cardiovascular health, adds to the therapeutic properties of this plant.

Rapé Huni Kuin Xacapandaré

SKU Base: RAHK11

This unique formulation, featuring a reduced tobacco content, was developed by the esteemed Chief Siã Huni Kuin of the Jordão region, a key indigenous leader from the Acre state. The blend incorporates Xacapandaré, a rare and elusive herb deeply rooted in their tradition. According to the makers, this medicinal blend is reputed to cure all diseases, with particular benefits for the respiratory system. They also believe it aids memory and strengthens the mind. The formulation is crafted with scientific precision to ensure a balanced mix of ingredients. The leaves are often burned as incense for purification purposes. Additionally, they are used in baths to cleanse the individual's body and aura, and can also be consumed internally as a tea. The rapé is prepared with tsunu ashes and a minimal amount of high-quality sabiá tobacco, making it an ideal choice for those who prefer to limit their tobacco intake. As described by the creators, when used in Rapé, this herb assists in clearing the mind, dispelling negative emotions, warding off evil spirits, and enhancing the respiratory system.

Rapé Huni Kuin Uxi

SKU Base: RAHK17

"This rapé is a unique blend, crafted from tobacco grown and fermented by the indigenous tribe itself. In contemporary times, this practice is a rarity as most tribes procure their tobacco from marketplace traders. Therefore, this rapé stands out as an authentic and original snuff. The ash used in this blend is derived from Uxi Amarelo, a tree revered for its supposed medicinal properties. This particular ash is a rarity and is known for its pleasant aroma. Hence, this rapé not only carries the traditional essence of the tribe but also the therapeutic potential of the Uxi Amarelo tree."

Rapé Huni Kuin Tradition

SKU Base: RAHK16

This unique blend, originating from the Huni Kuin tradition, is crafted with parica ashes and sabia tobacco. It is further enhanced with a selection of herbs intrinsic to their tradition, including copaiba, uxi amarelo, jatoba, and cumaru de cheiro. These medicinal herbs lend a distinct character to the mix. Cumaru de cheiro imparts a pleasing aroma to the blend and is known for its beneficial effects on the respiratory system. Copaiba, with its earthy tones, not only contributes to the blend's flavor profile but also supports the bronchial system and possesses anti-inflammatory properties. Jatoba is recognized for its ability to fortify the blood, while Uxi amarelo is traditionally used to aid the digestive system. This combination of ingredients results in a blend that is as therapeutic as it is flavorful.

Rapé Huni Kuin 7 Herbs

SKU Base: RAHK10

The Huni Kuin tradition, originating from the indigenous people of Brazil, often involves the use of 3, 5, or 7 herbs in their practices. The selection of seven herbs is not a rigid formula, but rather a general guideline to choose herbs that are known to be effective in rapé, a sacred snuff medicine, and beneficial for the respiratory system. This specific blend includes the following herbs: Capemba, Corama, Cumaru de Cheiro, Eucalyptus, Jatobá, Malvarisco, and Xipão. Each of these botanical ingredients contributes to the overall efficacy of the blend, providing relief for respiratory issues and enhancing the overall experience of using rapé.

Rapé Huni Kuin Queen of the Forest

SKU Base: RAHK15

"The Queen of the Forest, or "A Rainha da Floresta" in Portuguese, represents the spiritual embodiment of the feminine energy inherent in the Amazon rainforest. This entity is a mystical presence that exists behind the tangible world. Within the forest, she is symbolized by the Samauma tree, the largest of all trees, whose majestic crown provides shade to others, thus earning its title as the true queen of the forest. According to certain indigenous traditions, she is a bewitched princess who transformed into a tree. The snuff associated with the Queen of the Forest is crafted with Sabiá tobacco and Samauma ashes, combined with a proprietary blend of native forest essences. These ingredients give the blend its distinctive aroma and character."

Rapé Huni Kuin Murici

SKU Base: RAHK09

The Murici blend is a staple in the Huni Kuin or Kaxinawa tradition, much like the Tsunu blend is to the Yawanawa. This simple yet effective rapé is ideal for general use, reflecting the Huni Kuin's extensive range of sacred snuff recipes and ingredients. The blend is named after the Murici tree, a prevalent species in the forest that bears a fruit beloved by local wildlife. According to the Huni Kuin, the Murici rapé is believed to combat fatigue and maintain spiritual activity. Its effects are often associated with the joy of communal celebration, reinforcing its cultural significance.

Rapé Huni Kuin Mulateiro

SKU Base: RAHK13

This rapé is crafted with Mulateiro ashes by the indigenous artisans from Chief Siã's community in the Jordan region. The Mulateiro tree, also known as Paul Mulata, is renowned for its rejuvenating properties, which are harnessed in a variety of cosmetic and therapeutic preparations. The tree's regenerative quality is traditionally linked to its ability to shed and renew its fine bark regularly. This rapé, imbued with the essence of Mulateiro, is a straightforward blend that is both simple and effective.

Rapé Huni Kuin Iban

SKU Base: RAHK08

This potent blend is named after its creator, Iban, a member of the Kaxinawa or Huni Kuin tribe from the Juruá region. The concoction is composed of Cacau ashes combined with a unique mix of local herbs. Iban's blend is deeply rooted in the traditional practices of his tribe, reflecting the rich biodiversity of his native region. The use of Cacau ashes, in particular, is a distinctive feature of the blend, showcasing the tribe's deep knowledge of the local flora and their traditional medicinal uses. This blend offers a unique opportunity to experience the traditional herbal practices of the Kaxinawa tribe.

Rapé Huni Kuin Emburana

SKU Base: RAHK07

"This rapé is meticulously crafted using the ashes derived from Cumaru de Cheiro, also known as Emburana, scientifically referred to as Amburaba Cearensis. This tree is a unique subspecies of the Cumaru tree. Traditionally, the seeds of this tree have been utilized to infuse a distinct aroma into rapé, cigars, and various beverages. These seeds are known for their characteristic vanilla-like scent, a feature that is not present in the ashes used in the rapé preparation."

Rapé Huni Kuin Cumaru de Cheiro

SKU Base: RAHK06

"Our Aromatic Cumaru lends a delightful vanilla-like essence to the rapé, creating a dreamy medicinal experience that transports you with its fragrance. Our Rapé Huni Kuin Cumaru de Cheiro is crafted with finely ground Cumaru bark, rather than the commonly used seeds that are also known as tonka beans. In traditional medicine, rapé cumaru de cheiro is believed to act as a heart tonic, alleviate asthma symptoms, and possess anti-inflammatory properties. The Huni Kuin people also use the bark to brew medicinal teas. These are said to aid respiratory issues and other ailments, similar to the rapé. Cumaru, a potent tree revered in their culture and known as Cumã in their language, is at the heart of these remedies."

Rapé Huni Kuin Cumaru

SKU Base: RAHK05

"The Huni Kuin Cumaru snuff is crafted using the ashes of the Cumaru tree (Dipteryx Odorata), a species renowned for its exceptional durability and strength. According to the indigenous knowledge of the Huni Kuin people, the Cumaru tree is considered 'very true' or authentic due to its status as one of the hardest woods available. The tree is also believed to embody the wisdom of numerous enchantments, with its strength associated with spiritual protection and the ability to ward off negative energies. The ash of the Cumaru tree, when used in snuff, is said to impart strength and has a drying effect, making it beneficial for respiratory issues. However, due to its potent properties, it may not be suitable for daily use. Overall, Cumaru is highly regarded as a powerful aid for enhancing focus and concentration."

Rapé Huni Kuin Capemba

SKU Base: RAHK04

The ashes used in our products are derived from a revered palm tree, traditionally recognized for its medicinal attributes. This palm tree is culturally associated with the creation of wind, a metaphor inspired by the sight of its leaves swaying in the breeze. This wind is believed to drive diseases out of the body, much like the natural wind clears the air. The use of these ashes is thought to enhance spiritual strength and improve respiratory health, providing relief from conditions such as sinusitis. Our rape product is carefully crafted using tobacco and these Capemba ashes. The combination of these natural ingredients, steeped in tradition and cultural significance, ensures a product of the highest quality.

Rapé Huni Kuin Canela de Velho

SKU Base: RAHK03

"Canela de Velho, a small, shrubby tree known for its incredibly hard wood, is traditionally used in the treatment of rheumatic pains and related discomforts. When incinerated, this tree produces a unique ash. Although it shares some characteristics with the larger Caneleiro tree, the Canela de Velho is distinctly different. The rapé, a product derived from this tree, is crafted by the Huni Kuin community, who reside in the Caucho community within the Tarauaca region."

Rapé Huni Kuin Baimuka (Spirit of the Forest)

SKU Base: RAHK01

This product is crafted with Sabiá tobacco and Caneleiro ash, ingredients traditionally used by the local inhabitants of the region. It also incorporates a blend of aromatic herbs from the Huni Kuin tradition, including the unique Xipão. Xipão is an uncommon herb that grows parasitically on palm trees. Caneleiro shares medicinal properties similar to those of Canela de Velho. This plant is known for its ability to alleviate pain and inflammation in the joints, back, and conditions such as osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, bursitis, and rheumatism. It also aids in blood purification and offers numerous other health benefits. The product was created by Baimuka, a Txai Huni Kuin from the indigenous territory of Karapanã along the Tarauacá River.

Rapé Katukina Nissural

SKU Base: RAKA04

This product is crafted using a blend of locally sourced organic moi Tabaco and the more robust corda tobacco. The recipe incorporates Tsunu ashes, also referred to as Tsono by the Katukina tribe. It also includes an herb known as Nisural, which is part of the same botanical family as Apuxury and Pixuri. It's important to note that many local herbs are known by different names depending on the tribe that uses them, and there are also sub-species that are very similar but exhibit unique characteristics due to their specific geographical locations. This blend is traditionally used for alleviating headaches and dispelling negative energies. As per the creator of this blend, "Tsunu Rapé is a healing remedy. We incorporate Nisural to help dispel negative thoughts. At times, we may experience mental disturbances and this Rapé is used to clear our minds. Whenever negative thoughts arise, this remedy serves to eliminate them."

Rapé Kuntanawa Veia de Pajé (Heart of the Boa)

SKU Base: RAKU15

This unique Rapé blend is crafted from natural Sabia Mapacho, ashes of the Sapota tree, and a vine known for its heart-shaped leaves, often referred to as the "heart of the boa constrictor" or "Vein of the Pajé" (Pajé meaning medicine man). The creator of this blend describes it as a powerful and reserved combination. Its traditional use requires clarity and intention, as it is believed to facilitate spiritual alchemy. In its cultural context, this medicine is known to repel negative energy and attract positivity. It is traditionally used as a protective measure against jealousy and spiritual persecution. Many of the ingredients in this Rapé blend are also utilized in herbal baths and medicinal teas. This specific blend is believed to attract goodness, love, and success in hunting. It is also associated with bringing luck and prosperity. However, it is recommended to maintain a focused mind on the positive intentions one wishes to manifest, rather than on what one wants to avoid.

Rapé Kuntanawa Tete Pawã

SKU Base: RAKU17

This product is a unique blend of robust tobacco, Tsunu ashes, and the traditional medicines Kawa Xinã and Kumã. Kawa Xinã is a revered medicine known for its ability to purify thoughts and instill tranquility. Kumã, on the other hand, is celebrated for imparting strength and firmness, thereby providing guidance in spiritual studies. Rapé TETÊ PAWÃ is used for spiritual elevation, fostering calmness in one's journey, and enhancing concentration. It is believed to imbue the user with the power of rebirth. Tete Pawã is the indigenous term for the Harpy, a bird held in high esteem in the Amazon. This bird serves as a guide for the tribes and is referred to as the royal falcon (gavião real) in Brazil. This particular blend of rapé is a special concoction obtained from one of our preferred Rapé and handicraft creators in the upper Jurua region. It comes highly recommended.

Rapé Kuntanawa Samauma

SKU Base: RAKU12

The Samauma tree, often referred to as the "Mother of all Trees" and the "Queen of the Forest," holds a significant place in indigenous cultures due to its impressive size and the shade it provides to other trees. This tree has a deep spiritual significance and is a common feature in indigenous rituals and myths, where it is believed to possess protective magical powers for other trees and forest inhabitants. Some cultural beliefs consider the Samauma tree as the dwelling place for spirits residing in the woods. It is also commonly known as the "Tree of Life" and the "Ladder of Heaven," symbolizing the connection between Heaven and Earth. The Samauma tree is associated with a type of snuff that is believed to foster a strong spiritual connection and offer protection. This snuff is thought to have a profound impact on the crown chakra, which is responsible for our connection with the Astral plane. Additionally, due to its effect on the abdominal region, it is also believed to influence the umbilical chakra, which governs our relationships. The Samauma tree and its associated snuff are deeply rooted in tradition and spirituality, offering a unique connection to the natural world and our inner selves.

Rapé Nukini Sansara

SKU Base: RANU09

The Nukini Snuff is a unique blend that combines the traditional flavors of two plants, Sansara and Chamba, both of which are renowned for their medicinal properties and distinctive aromas. Sansara, a herb believed to possess spiritual qualities, is typically used in Rapé blends for its energetic cleansing properties. On the other hand, Chamba is traditionally used for natural pain relief, and is particularly effective for ailments such as headaches. This blend is meticulously crafted by a female member of the community, ensuring the preservation of its traditional essence.

Rapé Nukini White Roses

SKU Base: RANU08

"This soothing blend, designed specifically for women, combines Tsunu ashes with white roses. In Brazil, white roses are traditionally incorporated into herbal baths due to their calming effects and aura-purifying properties. Symbolically linked to femininity, these flowers are associated with Yemanjá, the queen of the sea, as per the West African Orixá tradition. This harmonious blend promises to deliver a calming experience."

Rapé Nukini Pitaica

SKU Base: RANU07

The product is crafted using the ashes derived from a medicinal bark, widely recognized as Carapanaúba or alternatively as Pitaica. The use of these ashes is relatively uncommon, yet they contribute to the creation of an exceptional rapé. This particular preparation of ashes is attributed to the Nukini tribe. Carapanaúba is traditionally employed for its protective properties against a range of health conditions including inflammation, Type II diabetes, gastritis, and malaria. It is also believed to aid in healing, liver health, bronchial health, fever reduction, kidney health, and alleviating inflammation of the uterus and ovaries. Furthermore, it is often used to improve poor digestion.

Rapé Nukini Elixir

SKU Base: RANU11

The Nukini Elixir is a new formulation that incorporates a leaf known as Elixir de Vagem. This plant is traditionally used for both spiritual and physical protection. It is common practice to use it in baths for children to prevent illness, and it is reputed to alleviate fever and pain. This unique Rapé, a product of their tradition, can only be created during the dry season when the rivers recede, as the plant thrives in the lower regions that are typically submerged during the rainy season. These areas are referred to as "vagem", which is where the plant derives its name. The Nukini Elixir is a potent, pleasantly fragrant Rapé that provides protection to its user.

Rapé Nukini Catinga de Mulata

SKU Base: RANU01

The Nukini blend is a potent formulation, meticulously crafted with a robust base and Tsunu ashes. This blend boasts a distinct red hue and emits a pleasing aroma, courtesy of the carefully selected herbs used in its composition. One of these herbs, known as Mulata or Mulatinha, is deeply rooted in the Nukini tradition and is renowned for its calming effects. Beyond its inclusion in the Rapé, Mulata is often utilized as a natural stress reliever. It is not uncommon for mothers within the Nukini tradition to use this herb to soothe their young children during periods of agitation. Additionally, due to its relaxing properties, Mulata is frequently incorporated into herbal baths.

Rapé Puyanawa Jagube

SKU Base: RAPU01

"Jagube is one of the many names attributed to the Banisteriopsis Caapi vine, a primary ingredient in the renowned Ayahuasca brew. This term is predominantly used by certain groups, including the Santo Daime communities, primarily located in the Acre region of Brazil. The Puyanawa people prepare this medicinal concoction using the ashes of the vine, a tradition initiated by their tribal leader, the Cacique. They primarily brew the bark of the vine and have recently begun using the wood to produce ashes. The vine is known to imbue the brew with strength and stamina, qualities that are believed to be transferred to their snuff through the ash. The medicine is often fragrant with pixuri leaf, a preferred additive in rapé due to its purifying and uplifting properties."

Rapé Yawanawa Kanarô

SKU Base: RAYA04

The Kanaro Rapé is crafted following the traditional Yawanawa recipe, which combines Tsunu ashes and natural tobacco. In Yawanawa culture, the Kanaro, or Blue Macaw, is revered as a messenger from their astral plane. The Yawanawa people often share the tales of the Kanaro through their saité, or storytelling songs, which are rich in cultural significance and tradition. This particular blend is created by Shaneihu, the grandson of the renowned Yawanawa shaman Yawa, and the son of Chief Biraci. Shaneihu was the last person to complete the rigorous one-year Muka initiation diet under his grandfather's guidance before his passing. This intensive spiritual journey is highly respected within the Yawanawa community and lends credibility to those who successfully complete it. In addition to his role as a rapé maker, Shaneihu is also an accomplished musician. His album, Kanaro, which is available on Spotify, beautifully encapsulates the rich cultural heritage of the Yawanawa people. The album offers listeners a unique opportunity to immerse themselves in the traditional storytelling songs of the Yawanawa, further enhancing their experience of the Kanaro Rapé.

Rapé Yawanawa Feminine Force

SKU Base: RAYA02

Feminine Force is a unique Yawanawa Rapé, meticulously prepared by Nawashahu, the daughter of Biraci, the chief of the Yawanawá tribe, and his wife Putani, the first woman to be initiated as a shaman in their tradition. Nawashahu continues her parents' legacy by incorporating her medicine songs into the preparation of this culturally significant medicine. The formulation of Feminine Force adheres to the fundamental Yawanawá recipe, which is a robust blend of Rapé and Tsunu ashes. The Yawanawá tribe, renowned for their deep connection with nature, have been using this traditional blend for generations, harnessing its potential to promote spiritual and physical well-being.

Rapé Yawanawa Esperanza (New Hope)

SKU Base: RAYA01

This product was meticulously crafted by a young tribesman who devoted three years of his life to a disciplined diet and the spiritual traditions of his people. This period marked a time of rejuvenation for the tribe, as they sought to leave behind a painful past and relocate their community for a fresh start. Their new home was christened 'Nova Esperança', translating to 'New Hope'. For the traditional members of the tribe, authentic Yawanawa Rapé is defined by its adherence to a simple, time-honored recipe: tobacco and Tsunu ashes. The Tsunu tree, indigenous to the tribe's region, is integral to this process. Its bark is carefully burned to produce the ashes that are then combined with tobacco to create the Rapé. This blend is a testament to the tribe's deep-rooted connection to their natural environment and their commitment to preserving their cultural heritage.
